

Privacy for our customers, and for their customers

Prvidr Pty Ltd, a business registered in Australia with ABN 11 604 112 325 (Prvidr, we, us or our) are committed to protecting the personal information we collect from, and on behalf of our customers.

Subject to certain well understood exceptions, the Privacy Act 1988 (Cth) (Privacy Act) and the Australian Privacy Principles (APPs) govern the handling of personal information in Australia. If you are located in or are a citizen of the European Union, you may have additional rights under the European Union General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR). This document sets out how we will manage personal information.

About Prvidr

Prvidr offers Business Management Platform-as-a-service capabilities to enable brands to themselves offer Telco, Energy and Subscription digital products into the Australian market.

We also integrate with 3rd-party software platforms as part of the service offering to these brands.

As part of the delivery of platform and process capabilities to our customers we deal with personal information in the capacity of a service provider to other organisations who are the primary collector (or 'data processor') of end-user data which we manage on behalf of our customers who engage us to support their business.

In this privacy policy, when we call you our 'customer' it is when you are a direct customer of ours, and when we call you our 'customer's customer' it is when you are an end-user of the services we offer to our customers.

Note that this document will in many cases be superseded by our customers' own privacy policies that their customers (end-users) should be familiar with.

Collection

Types of information collected

If you are our customer, we may collect and hold personal information about you, that is, information that can identify you, and is relevant to providing you with the services you are being offered by us. In particular, we may collect:

- a. Identity data including your name, company name and username or similar identifier;
- b. Contact data including your contact details such as your company address, email address and telephone number;

If you are our customer's customer, we may be required (on behalf of, and at the request of our customer) to collect and hold personal information about you, that is information that can identify you, and is relevant to providing you with the services our customer is offering to you. In particular we may collect:

- c. Identity data including your name, date of birth, username or similar identifier;
- d. Contact data including your contact details such as your billing and service address, email address and telephone number;
- e. Financial data including payment information;
- f. Transaction data including details about payments to and from you, billing data and other details of products and services you have purchased from our customer;
- g. Technical data including your internet protocol (IP) address, your login data, browser type and version, time zone setting and location, browser plug-in types and versions, operating system and platform, and other technology on the devices you use to access our customer's websites, portals or other web resources;
- h. Profile data including your username and password, purchases or orders made by you, your interests, preferences, feedback and survey responses;

- i. Usage data including information about how you use our customers' websites, products and services; and
- j. Marketing and communications data including your preferences in receiving marketing from our customer and your communication preferences.

Purpose of collection

The personal information that we collect and hold about you depends on your interaction with us.

If you are our customer, we will generally collect, use and hold your personal information if it is reasonably necessary for or directly related to the performance of our functions and activities and for the purposes of:

- a. managing our relationship with you; and
- b. delivering our services to you.

If you are our customer's customer, we process your information for the purposes of providing our services to our customer including for:

- c. providing services to you or someone else you know on behalf of our customer;
- d. providing you with promotional material and information about other goods and services that our customer, their related entities and other organisations that they have affiliations with, offer what may be of interest to you;
- e. facilitating our internal business operations on behalf of our customer, including the fulfilment of any legal or regulatory compliance requirements;
- f. analysing our services and customer needs on behalf of our customer with a view to developing new or improved services.

We have set out below, in a table format, a description of all the ways we plan to use your personal information, and what reasoning we rely on to do so. We have also identified what our legitimate interests are where appropriate.

Method of collection

If you are our customer or our customers' customer, personal information will generally be collected directly from you through the use of any of our standard forms, over the internet, via email, through a telephone conversation with you, or in person. There may, however, be some instances where personal information about you will be collected indirectly because it is unreasonable or impractical to collect personal information directly from you. We will usually notify you about these instances in advance, or where that is not possible, as soon as reasonably practicable after the information has been collected. In some case we rely on our customer to notify you that they may use services like ours and that personal information may be disclosed to us. We take reasonable steps to ensure they are aware of and comply with this obligation.

Failure to provide information

If the personal information you provide to us is incomplete or inaccurate, we may be unable to provide you as our customer or our customers' customer, or someone else you know, with the services you, or they, are seeking.

Internet users

If you access our or our customers' websites that we manage, we may collect additional personal information about you in the form of your IP address and domain name.

Our and our customers' websites use cookies. The main purpose of cookies is to identify users and to prepare customised web resources for them. Cookies do not identify you personally, but they may link back to a database record about you. We use cookies to monitor usage of our and our customers' websites and to create a personal record of when you visit our or our customers' websites and what pages you view so that we may serve you more effectively.

Our or our customers' websites may contain links to other websites. We are not responsible for the privacy practices of linked websites and linked websites are not subject to our privacy policies and procedures.

Use and disclosure

We will only use your personal information when the law allows us to. If you are our customers' customer, generally we only use or disclose personal information about you for the purposes for which it was collected (as set out above). We may disclose personal information about you to our customers.

We may also disclose personal information to:

- a. Google Analytics who assist our customers in analysing the services we provide on behalf of them to their customers with a view to developing new or improved services. Further information how Google Analytics collects and processes data is available at www.google.com/policies/privacy/partners; and
- b. Third parties to whom we may choose to sell, transfer or merge parts of our business or our assets. Alternatively, we may seek to acquire other businesses or merge with them. If a change happens to our business, then the new owners may use your personal information in the same way as set out in this privacy policy.

Disclosure of personal information overseas

We are not likely to disclose your personal information overseas, except as permitted by the Privacy Act, unless we otherwise advise you in writing.

Marketing

We strive to provide you with choices regarding certain personal information uses, particularly around marketing and advertising.

We may use your personal information to form a view on what we think you may want or need, or what may be of interest to you. This is how we decide which products, services and offers may be relevant for you (we call this marketing).

You may receive marketing communications from us if you have requested information from us or purchased services from us and you have not opted out of receiving that marketing.

We will get your express opt-in consent before we share your personal information with any third party for marketing purposes.

You can ask us or third parties to stop sending you marketing messages at any time by following the opt-out links on any marketing message sent to you or by contacting us at any time.

Where you opt out of receiving these marketing messages, this will not apply to personal information provided to us as a result of a service purchase, warranty registration, product/service experience or other transactions.

Disclosure of personal information overseas

We are not likely to disclose your personal information overseas, except as permitted by the Privacy Act or, if applicable the GDPR, unless we otherwise advise you in writing. If we do transfer your personal information overseas, we ensure a similar degree of protection is afforded to it as set out in this privacy policy or otherwise required by law.

Security

We store your personal information in different ways, including in paper and in electronic form. The security of your personal information is important to us. We take all reasonable measures to ensure that your personal information is stored safely to protect it from interference, misuse, loss, unauthorised access, modification or disclosure, including electronic and physical security measures. In addition, we limit access to your personal information to those employees, agents, contractors and other third parties who have a legitimate need to know.

They will only process your personal information on our instructions and they are subject to a duty of confidentiality.

We have put in place procedures to deal with any suspected personal information breach and will notify you and any applicable regulator of a breach where we are legally required to do so.

Data Retention

We will only retain your personal information for as long as reasonably necessary to fulfil the purposes we collected it for, including for the purposes of satisfying any legal, regulatory, tax, accounting or reporting requirements. We may retain your personal information for a longer period in the event of a complaint or if we reasonably believe there is a prospect of litigation in respect to our relationship with you.

To determine the appropriate retention period for personal information, we consider the amount, nature and sensitivity of the personal information, the potential risk of harm from unauthorised use or disclosure of your personal information, the purposes for which we process your personal information and whether we can achieve those purposes through other means, and the applicable legal, regulatory, tax, accounting or other requirements.

Where we anonymise your personal information (so that it can no longer be associated with you) for research or statistical purposes, we may use this information indefinitely without further notice to you.

Data Deletion

You may request that your personal information be deleted where we are not required to retain the information for the purposes of satisfying any legal, regulatory, tax, accounting or reporting requirements.

We will delete the information using hashing. Personal information will be replaced with hashed placeholders, and only you will hold the key to decrypt the hashes.

Where personal information is anonymised it will be performed through the use of hashing. This is one-way and non-reversible.

Access and correction

You may access the personal information we hold about you, upon making a written request. We will respond to your request within a reasonable period. We may charge you a reasonable fee for processing your request (but not for making the request for access).

We may decline a request for access to personal information in circumstances prescribed by the Privacy Act, Telecommunications Act, Anti-Terrorism Act or other legislation or, if applicable the GDPR, and if we do, we will give you a written notice that sets out the reasons for the refusal (unless it would be unreasonable to provide those reasons).

If, upon receiving access to your personal information or at any other time, you believe the personal information we hold about you is inaccurate, incomplete or out of date, please notify us immediately. We will take reasonable steps to correct the information so that it is accurate, complete and up to date.

If we refuse to correct your personal information, we will give you a written notice that sets out our reasons for our refusal (unless it would be unreasonable to provide those reasons), including details of the mechanisms available to you to make a complaint.

GDPR Compliance

If you are a European Union resident and your personal information is governed by the GDPR, you may have additional rights as set out below:

- a. Request erasure of your personal information. This enables you to ask us to delete or remove personal information where there is no good reason for us continuing to process it. You also have the right to ask us to delete or remove your personal information where you have successfully exercised your right to object to processing (see below), where we may have processed your information unlawfully or where we are required to erase your personal information to comply with local law. Note, however, that we may not always be able to comply with your request of erasure for specific legal reasons which will be notified to you, if applicable, at the time of your request.

- b. Object to processing of your personal information where we are relying on a legitimate interest (or those of a third party) and there is something about your particular situation which makes you want to object to processing on this ground as you feel it impacts on your fundamental rights and freedoms. You also have the right to object where we are processing your personal information for direct marketing purposes. In some cases, we may demonstrate that we have compelling legitimate grounds to process your information which override your rights and freedoms.
- c. Request restriction of processing of your personal information. This enables you to ask us to suspend the processing of your personal information in the following scenarios:
 - i. If you want us to establish the information's accuracy.
 - ii. Where our use of the information is unlawful but you do not want us to erase it.
 - iii. Where you need us to hold the information even if we no longer require it as you need it to establish, exercise or defend legal claims.
 - iv. You have objected to our use of your information but we need to verify whether we have overriding legitimate grounds to use it.
- d. Request the transfer of your personal information to you or to a third party. We will provide to you, or a third party you have chosen, your personal information in a structured, commonly used, machine-readable format. Note that this right only applies to automated information which you initially provided consent for us to use or where we used the information to perform a contract with you.
- e. Withdraw consent at any time where we are relying on consent to process your personal information. However, this will not affect the lawfulness of any processing carried out before you withdraw your consent. If you withdraw your consent, we may not be able to provide certain products or services to you. We will advise you if this is the case at the time you withdraw your consent.

Complaints and feedback

If you wish to make a complaint about a breach of the Privacy Act, the APPs, the GDPR or a privacy code that applies to us, please contact us using the details below and we will take reasonable steps to investigate the complaint and respond to you.

If you have any queries or concerns about our privacy policy or the way we handle your personal information, please contact our privacy officer at:

Street address: Level 5, 44 Pitt St, Sydney NSW 2000, Australia

Email address: privacy@prvidr.com

Website: www.prvidr.com

For more information about privacy in general, you can visit the Office of the Information Commissioner's website at www.oaic.gov.au.

If you wish to make a complaint about the collection, use or disclosure of your personal information, please contact our privacy officer, and we will work with you to resolve the issue.

If after this process you are not satisfied with our response, you can submit a complaint to the Office of the Information Commissioner. To lodge a complaint, visit the 'Complaints' section of the Information Commissioner's website, located at www.oaic.gov.au/privacy/privacy-complaints to obtain the relevant complaint forms, or contact the Information Commissioner's office.

We are not required to appoint a Data Protection Officer under the GDPR but, if you are located in or are a citizen of the European Union you may have certain additional rights to make a complaint to the privacy regulator in your home country of residence.
